How much are your coins and medals worth ?

If you're considering selling part of all of your collection, it's a good idea to keep in touch with the market. Our experts will be happy to inspect your collection and give you a free auction valuation, without any obligation to sell.

Best prices

Whatever the value of your collection, you'll receive a friendly welcome from an experienced fellow enthusiast at Glendining's.

And when you do decide to sell, you'll like the service too. We are purely consignment auctioneers, and so act as independent agents for your property.

Well-publicised sales

A distinguished name since 1900. Glendining's holds quarterly coin auctions offering several thousand lots. We publicise our sales throughout the world, using our exclusive database of active collectors, dealers and other interested parties. Our catalogues are well-illustrated and we aim to get them into buyer's hands three weeks before the sales. These are held in our own saleroom which is purpose built for numismatic auctions. We also auction war medals quarterly.

FREE VALUATIONS

Our commission rates are reasonable and open to negotiation on items of high value. Lots are usually offered for sale within 12 weeks of delivery, and vendors receive speedy settlement. For a free auction valuation just phone Andrew Litherland or Anthony Dowle on (0171) 493 2445.

The Royal Mint: A Tradition of Excellence

An invitation to join the Royal Mint Coin Club

Coin collecting is now one of the most keenly pursued hobbies in the world. In order to satisfy the demands of the modern collector, the Royal Mint has established its own Coin Club to provide its members with the latest information on new coins from both home and abroad. Recognised as the supreme examples of the minter's art, Royal Mint collector coins, often struck in precious metals, form a tangible record of our heritage.

To find out more about how coins are created and to receive your free brochures, simply telephone (01443) 223880 or write to the address below for further information.
